Beginning of XX century. An American woman fascinated by Africa and by an impossible love. Jayta Humphreys, a rich American lady married to a German veteran of the colonial wars tells her life in German Southwest Africa. In the years previous to World War I, the couple travelled to that continent to build a mansion and to breed horses in the middle of the Nabib desert, as they shared a common passion for these animals and both were accomplished riders. Based on a true story, it will fascinate all those who loved Out of Africa.
