After the murder of his wife, Matías decides to fly to New York to follow the trail of his father, who abandoned him as a child. There, in the early hours, he comes upon the wonderland designed by his father, where tramps leave the streets to take part in a weird writers' residency and sex shops form the cornerstone of a utopian project that aims to do away with money.

Matt gets closer to the truth about his family but he also has to confront the terrible implications of the laws of thermodynamics, the approaching energy crisis, and in the end he will have to answer one key question: would you save the world now that you have lost everything?
