Who are the Indignant Ones? What are they protesting about? What do they want? These and other questions are answered in this book by four voices committed to the 15-M. That day, 15th May 2011, a call transmitted through social networks brought together thousands of people in nearly 60 Spanish cities. The same night, many of them camped out in plazas, triggering the most cross the board, peaceful protest of the last decades in Spain. But how did it all start? It wasn't the unions or any political party who sent out the call ?spanishrevolution, the effects of which are still to be seen. They were anonymous citizens, some of whom express their opinions here and their proposals for the future.
