If you are still wondering what is going on with the current global economic crisis, this is your book. Leopoldo Abadía explains in a very positive and clear way that anyone is able to make the most out of the worst situations in life. The key is to put a brave face and always keep a good sense of humour.

How is it possible that something happening in Illinois can immediately affect our family budget? What is the similarity between my household economy and the so unfamiliar government budget? What does it have to do with ethics and honesty?

From San Quirico, an imaginary town surrounded by an ordinary reality, a neighbour, a dog and a robin, Abadía, the new economy guru, gives answers to this and many other questions in his own particular way.
