

El fuego de las sombras

The Fire in the Shadows

Author: Fernando Morillo; Xanti Rodríguez; Diabulus In Musica [1]

Language: Spanish

Year of Publication: 2012

Pages: 112

Number of editions: 1

Spanish Retail price: 21.50€

ISBN: 978-84-940511-2-8

Genre: Literature

SPRING

2013

Season: Year 2013

The 21st century. Your world. In lands watched over by Anboto, the sacred mountain of the Basques, one reckless god steals a march on the others. This is Gaueko, the Lord of the Night. The others are still sleeping. Silence! Do not wake the departed. Pray they do not open their eyes. Before the time of your legends, there were demonic beasts on stony hills and shadow beings throughout the night. Centuries went by under seas of fog, dances and battles filled with blood and mud. Then time passed and they were forgotten. Until now. These forgotten gods are waking up and opening their eyes again, hungry to be what they once were. Hear the thunderclap. The world, your modern world of technology will be blown into pieces. Gaueko, the Lord of the Night, does not want to miss his chance, and must act before the dreaded Mari, the ancient chief goddess, wakes. She is his eternal rival.

Publishing rights available from Company: Gaumin

CIF: B75041756

Address: C/ Europa, 13

Contact: Naiara Ibar

Phone: 943 008830

E-mail: gaumin@gaumin.com [2]

E-mail: gauminhontza@gmail.com [3]

Website: <http://www.itzalensua.com> [4]

Website: <http://www.gaumin.com> [5]

Countries where the rights have been sold:

Spain: Spanish and Basque

Additional information Prizes and reviews:

Xanti Rodríguez: - WPPI Commercial Award, 2011. - Two second prizes at the International Photo Awards in the US, 2012. - Gold Camera Award in European Photographer of the Year, 2012.

Source URL: <http://217.160.225.169/node/15192>

Links:

[1] <http://217.160.225.169/node/15219>

[2] <mailto:gaumin@gaumin.com>

[3] <mailto:gauminhontza@gmail.com>

[4] <http://www.itzalensua.com>

[5] <http://www.gaumin.com>