The 25 stories in "Cançons d'amor i de pluja" are structured like a recital of emotions and reflections on the vulnerabilities and most absurd rituals of maturity. With precise style and intensely charged, Pàmies reinterprets the clichés of archetypal romanticism and the obligations of sentimental hypochondria. Refined and contained, the tone and style aim for a balance between being caustic, lively and melancholy. With these instruments, Pàmies investigates the stagnant waters of love, dependence on inherited memory, pain for one's absent loved ones and the pleasure of writing without knowing where the line is between invention and autobiography.
