On 10 September, 2001, Brandon Moy found himself in York with an old friend who made him remember all those old dreams they had shared as young men and which he had never achieved. Moy had a wife he loved, a model son, an endiable apartment in Manhattan and a successful job, but when he remembered everything he'd wanted to do with his life he felt he had failed. The next morning, as he walks to his office in the Twin Towers, Al Qaeda's planes crash into them. Brandon Moy thought that fate was offering him a second chance. 'La misma ciudad' is the story of that second chance. The story of Brandon Moy in search of himself in a landscape that at times is quite sinister. A journey through the illusory nature of dreams and the value of adventure as a source of existential wealth.
