Paula Bonet, one of the most internationally renowned and highly regarded illustrators, offers a personal vision of François Truffaut. The French cinematographer, the greatest exponent of the French New Wave, is a captivating character with a complex personality. An ardent fan of Truffaut, Paula Bonet has revisited his oeuvre multiple times, travelled to Paris, surrounded herself with the air, sounds and lights of the French capital and has recorded it all in her personal notebook. An open notebook: one artist's approach to another artist.
