Tomorrow All Day is an inspiring and extraordinary book from promising new illustrator Bea Enríquez. The star of the story is a daring, brave, reflexive, sometimes chaotic cat who always follows his dreams. His imagination goes with him wherever he travels and is always there when needed, creating limitless worlds where reality overcomes cat fiction. Why is this book so enchanting? 1. Because it emphasises the importance of dreams; 2. Because it can be read over and over again without losing its appeal; 3. Because its language is poetic and playful, subtle and emotional; and 4. Because from beginning to end it is full of magic and surprise.
