“Sometimes your brain just clicks and nothing is ever where it was again” Which is exactly what happens to Méritus Moodle while he stands looking at some cave paintings of a strange person wearing some sort of crown made of leaves. It’s not the first time he’s seen him, and it won’t be the last, and his investigations take him to the Peruvian Amazon, where this enigmatic character who seems to defy the laws of space and time was last seen. But Moodle’s expedition will become an exciting adventure in a fight for the ecosystem, in this book that promises to arouse the environmental conscience of every reader.
