

LAS COSAS QUE REALMENTE HAN VISTO ESTOS OJOS INEXISTENTES

The Things These Non-existent Eyes Have Really Seen

Author: Josep Lluís Badal [1]

Publisher: CASA CATEDRAL [2]

Language: Spanish

Year of Publication: 2017

Pages: 272

Number of editions: 1

Spanish Retail price: 18.27€

ISBN: 9788416738151

Genre: Literature

SPRING

2018

Season: Year 2018

The night is huge and structureless. But it is punctuated by our hearts. It's mid-afternoon, the weather is good, father rolls up his shirt sleeves. A dog barks outside, the elm trees rustle, the tap in the bathroom drips. I can hear banging as my brother mucks around in the workshop in the garden. Mama is downstairs running the shop, or rather waiting for the first customer of the afternoon. The house smells of cleaning, of fried food. There's a certain aroma of earth, tomatoes, potatoes sitting on straw, of absence. Leaning against the kitchen sink, taking a rest from the day, from work, from illness, from life, which in recent years has steadily become a farce, my father contemplates a cloud. He smiles beneath his ginger moustache. I miss you.

Publishing rights available from Company: EDITORIAL RATA

CIF: B08189680

Address: Josep Pla, 95

Contact: Maite Ramírez

Phone: 935057434

E-mail: mramirez@grec.com [3]

Source URL: <http://217.160.225.169/node/31572>

Links:

[1] <http://217.160.225.169/node/31685>

[2] <http://217.160.225.169/node/31686>

[3] <mailto:mramirez@grec.com>