Prepare to see the world through the eyes of a child! This new book in the collection "Everything I Know About...", by author Jaume Copons, deals with that universal subject - diversity. The protagonist reflects on diversity, from his point of view, in a simple language with amusing questions. To engage children and make the story even more entertaining, the story is illustrated with funny drawings by Guridi. And at the end readers will find a simple mechanism that is bound to surprise them, to make them smile and ask themselves new questions: are we all different, or all the same? Do you want to know more? Well, open the book and all will be revealed.
