Season: Year 2019

Life bestows beautiful and subtle presents for the senses with the change of every season. 'One Year...' invites us to learn how to see, or to remember, the beauty of those small things which mark the passage of time through ephemeral details picked out in brilliantly coloured silhouettes and poems which last as long as a moment. The arrival of each new season heralds a new celebration: the sweet taste of a summer watermelon; the strange language of autumnal wind; the windows into other worlds within a winter puddle; the bloom-burst of cherry trees in spring. 'One Year...' aspires to be a short song to the fleeting beauty created by the cycles of nature, postcards that capture the wonder of those who see it in detail for the first time.
