2020

Season: Year 2020

The year is 2040. The headquarters of Knowledge and Power are trying to erase from the face of the earth all traces of philosophy and insubordination in order to maintain an automated and obedient society. Philosophy has become a dangerous and defiant weapon, capable of demolishing the building of (dis)knowledge promulgated by wisdom. Philosophers like Plato or Nietzsche are capable of awakening the consciences of this sleeping society, they taught us to think for ourselves. But what would happen if Plato and Nietzsche appeared in such a society? Would they be able to work as a team to rid the world of a devastating future of ignorance and submission, or would they instead fight each other constantly?
