Alina decided to plant a tree. A branch grew from the tree. A pair of birds flying nearby decided the tree would make a good site for their nest. Then there were: one branch, two birds and an egg. Another branch grew out from the tree... and a family of rabbits who were passing by decided that it would be a good place to dig their warren. Then there were two branches, two birds, three eggs and four rabbits. Five pieces of fruit grew on the tree. Six bees built their hive on one of the branches. Then there were two branches, five birds, four rabbits, five pieces of fruit and six bees... Sometimes a small decision is enough to transform the world around us. Young children will enjoy this book's illustrations and counting birds, rabbits, flowers, bees... and grow closer to nature through the amusing story.
