The young protagonist of this story has been watching her neighbours for a long time. Their behaviour provides the answers she needs to understand what love really means. We learn from a very young age that love, a fundamental experience for human beings, is one of the compasses by which we guide ourselves through life. To learn about love, whatever form it takes, can help a child understand the reason behind adults' actions. "Ia and Fran are my neighbours - and I think they're in love!" With this declaration begins a story that talks about Love with a capital L, about the essence of two people falling in love, from the point of view of its protagonist: a little girl who sees how her neighbours hold hands when they go out, how they canoodle...
