This is a book of games based around the number three, and is full of fun illustrations and ideas that are easily accessible to children. It is aimed at three year old children, and its educational value lies in its use of an original and entertaining strategy based on interaction between the child and the book, whereby the child places the fingers which corresponds to their age in the hole on each page. In this way, they discover that there are 3 flowers in the plant pot, that the dragon bares 3 teeth, that the lion has 3 toes... This book is a wonderful resource which helps children to refine psychomotor skills and to interiorise numbers in a meaningful way.
