Orión is a Gliesian who has been teleported down to Earth with one mission: to take over the planet before his rivals from Gliese A and Gliese B do so. Orión is sure of his success - not for nothing is he one of the best players of simulation videogames in the universe. What's more, he has the invaluable help of OC08/LTb (08 to his friends), the supercomputer that guides him from its orbit close to the Earth. But what Orión hasn't considered is that in reality he is nothing more than a teenager lost in a world he doesn't know or understand, where people don't take a kid wearing trainers seriously, and where turning up in the private bathroom of the U.N. Secretary General is bound to bring you nothing but trouble.
