This book is part of a multimedia packet including printed matter and audiovisual material on an interactive CD of the same title.

The work is aimed at early-years professionals, the child's extended family and/or others interested in the subject. It hopes to offer help and guidance in the production of the educational material and resources for young children (between 2 and 6) discussed in the work and for finding creative solutions.

In addition to a description and images, all the games are accompanied by methodological suggestions, a description of aims, the number of players required, a description of the game and any variants.

The unique selling point of these resources is that they are prototypes of handicraft design.
