Season: AUTUMN 2011

As soon as they come into the world, all the fears curl up in their little corner, tucked up tight. But where are they born and where do they die? What are fears made of? Nothing, nobody knows anything.

The only sure thing is that suddenly, almost always at the worst moment, fears leap out at you.

This book was presented in Paris by UNESCO on World Philosophy Day in 2010, and a teaching resource can be downloaded from the publisher's website.
