

Dulce veneno

sweet poison

Author: Blas Parra [1]

Publisher: El Nadir [2]

Language: Spanish

Year of Publication: 2009

Pages: 199

Number of editions: 1

Spanish Retail price: 14.00€

ISBN: 978-84-936744-5-8

Genre: Literature

AUTUMN

2011

Season: AUTUMN 2011

Two short novels that complement and complete each other. Arcadia, the protagonist of 'Mad desires', sucks the blood of a rapist and husband, after her incredible transformation into a legend. In 'The little crusader', the second part, she tells of her melancholy descendant, an anorexic boy educated in a school run by violent priests in post-war Spain, and possessed by a beautiful woman whom he fights by talking to God in a dying world of highly un-exemplary priests. A fantastic, historical metaphor for a destructive society, which poetically describes a different kind of vampirism where the dead and alive communicate with each other. Religion, politics and sex combine to create a society that can only be confronted by fleeing from it.

Publishing rights available from Company: editorial el nadir

CIF: B97383475

Contact: Elena Iambés

Phone: 649114723

E-mail: info@elnadir.es [3]

Website: <http://www.elnadir.es> [4]

Additional information Prizes and reviews:

Casino de Mieres prize, Ayuntamiento de Alacuás prize. (see Blas Parra on Wikipedia).

Source URL: <http://217.160.225.169/node/5812>

Links:

[1] <http://217.160.225.169/node/5520>

[2] <http://217.160.225.169/node/5516>

[3] <mailto:info@elnadir.es>

[4] <http://www.elnadir.es>