

Sin lavarse las manos. Cuentos para antes de comer

Don't wash your hands. Stories for before you eat

Author: David Rosel [1]

Author: Gustavo Duch [2]

Author: Júlía Sardá [3]

Publisher: Play Attitude [4]

Language: Spanish

Year of Publication: 2011

Pages: 66

Number of editions: 1

Spanish Retail price: 18.00€

ISBN: 978-84-15149-26-2

Genre: Literature

SPRING

2012

Season: SPRING 2012

Don't wash your hands, don't close your mouth and sing at table are some of the educational rules of this book. These are instructions for disobeying the unjust and perverse order that reigns on our planet. The more food industrialised agriculture produces, the higher the poverty and hunger statistics are; with all the news focused on the financial crisis, the climate and ecological crises (furtively) advance dangerously; the indebtedness of rich countries and foreign debt are both eliminating the population's social rights; instead of decreasing, discrimination against women, against rural communities, against indigenous people, seems to be multiplying; even nature with its earthquakes seems (falsely) to discriminate against some countries in favour of others. We cannot wash our hands. 'Sin lavarse los manos' is therefore a collection of protest stories.

Publishing rights available from Company: Play Creatividad S.L.

CIF: B-61870879

Contact: Elfrén García Artero

Phone: 934357888

E-mail: efren@playcreatividad.com [5]

Website: <http://www.playcreatividad.com> [6]

Source URL: <http://217.160.225.169/node/8298>

Links:

[1] <http://217.160.225.169/node/7888>

[2] <http://217.160.225.169/node/7886>

[3] <http://217.160.225.169/node/7887>

[4] <http://217.160.225.169/node/7757>

[5] <mailto:efren@playcreatividad.com>

[6] <http://www.playcreatividad.com>